

Mark A. Bloomfield

Mark A. Bloomfield is President and CEO of the American Council for Capital Formation \(ACCF\), which, conducts research, educates the media, and engages policymakers on broad economic policy, including, tax, trade, infrastructure, ESG, energy, regulatory and retirement policies.

Mark hosts the ACCF Webinar Series: Politics and Policy on the Potomac, interviewing policymakers and policy shapers on today’s global economic challenges. It is a featured podcast on Apple and Spotify. Recent guests include former Secretary of Treasury Larry Summers; Senate Committee Chairmen Ron Wyden (D-OR) and Joe Manchin (D-WV); House Republican Leader Steve Scalise; and Wall Street Journal Editorial Page Editor Paul Gigot, Washington Post Associate Editor Jonathan Capehart and The Economist Editor-in-Chief Zanny Minton Beddoes.

CNN noted, Mark is “well-schooled in the arts of both economics and politics and is one of the most influential figures operating behind the scenes in Congress.” Mark has written op-eds for The Wall Street Journal, where he was also the subject of “The Weekend Interview”. He contributes to Fortune and The Hill, Capitol Hill’s leading newspaper.

Mark believes entrepreneurship is critical for the economy. He is on the board of advisors of three startups: Curio, a nuclear technology company to address nuclear waste, deploy advanced reactors and produce isotopes for medical purposes; Superstorm, a startup to build customize and deploy AI flows with no data science skills required; and FINTECH TV, a global media platform covering blockchain, digital assets, and impact investing with studios at the NYSE, the London Stock Exchange, and Abu Dhabi.

On Capitol Hill, Mark hosts “Washington’s Last Salon,” a unique event that has received bipartisan praise—a rarity today current. More than 100 members of the 118th Congress have participated, almost equally divided between Democrats and Republicans. The Economist noted, “Participants—members of Congress, journalists and business leaders—gather away from the cameras and grandstanding to discuss the issues of the day and on occasion help steer economic policy.”

A former Visiting Professor at Georgetown University, Mark is a co-editor or contributor to six books on economic policy, including, “The U.S. Savings Challenge: Policy Options for Productivity and Growth.”

A former international long-distance runner, Mark is the world-wide “Ambassador” for the Comrades Ultra Marathon (89km) in South Africa and a “Spirit of Comrades” awardee. At the unveiling of the Nelson Mandela statue in WDC, he was presented with a ballot from the first free election in 1994 for his contribution to South Africa.

Mark received a JD from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, an MBA from the Wharton School, and graduated magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa from Swarthmore College.
